Martinez y Orts lanterns at the Entrance

Since first opening its doors in 1926, the InterContinental New York Barclay has welcomed countless guests to enjoy a luxurious residential-style experience in the heart of the city. Originally constructed as part of the Grand Central Terminal expansion, The Barclay became one of four notable railroad hotels built to service the well-heeled men and women travelling to New York City. Its convenient location, directly above the railroad tracks, permitted the hotel the unique distinction of having its own platform in the basement, ideal for the upscale rail traveler who occasionally arrived by private train car. In addition to its Midtown East location, the hotel made an immediate impact with tenants and critics alike for its characteristic atmosphere of comfort and elegant domesticity. From that moment, The Barclay began to write its history as the hotel of choice for those looking to take respite in this stately residential hotel of international prestige.

The Entrance of this hotel shows two elegant lanterns of Martinez y Orts collection. These lantern give a unique look of high class to the entrance of this elegant hotel. The Lobby area is decorated with 6 chandeliers hand made in sand cast brass appearing at the image on the right.

Martinez y Orts crystal chandeliers and wall lights in Valencia city hall

The Town Hall of the city of Valencia, seat of the Municipal Council, integrates, in an apple of slightly trapezoidal plant, two constructions of well-differentiated period and style: the House of Teaching, built on the initiative of the archbishop Don Andrés Mayoral, between 1758 and 1763, and the body of the building that constitutes the main facade, made between the second and third decades of the 20th century.

The Teaching House was conceived as a school, the courtyard internalizes and articulates the dependencies of a center of this type: classrooms in the first two floors and bedrooms in the third, as well as other complementary services, distributed among them, and a piece as outstanding as the chapel, to which the south bay is reserved.
